

In Plant Radiation Safety Training Schools

Intermediate Radiation Safety Training

We recommend this three day course for employees who need more in depth training than is provided in the one day Radiation Safety for Gauge Users course. Based on NUREG 1556, this class covers:

Basic atomic theory	Routine procedures
Measurement and monitoring	Emergency procedures
Health effects	Rules and regulations

Maximum class size is 10 students; minimum number is 3. A 10% discount is given for a class of 5 or more students. Travel time and all expenses of the instructor are billed at current field service rates. $800 per student + travel & expenses

Radiation Safety for Gauge Users

This one day class is designed to give operation and maintenance personnel the information they need to allow them to work safely with nuclear gauges. General gauge theory, lockout procedures, the use of radiation detection instruments, and emergency procedures are the topics of focus for this class. A test is given at the end of the class and certificates will be mailed to attendees. This class can be customized to emphasize your plant's safety procedures.

$1700 for up to 10 people + travel & expenses

Add $30 for each additional person up to a maximum of 20 people per session

Introduction to Radiation Safety

This four hour class provides basic awareness for anyone who works around nuclear gauges. It is designed to give people a level of training about ionizing radiation that meets the requirements of 10CFR19.12. A test is given at the end of the class and certificates will be mailed to attendees.

$825 for up to 10 people + travel & expenses

Add $20 for each additional person up to a maximum of 20 people per session

Radiation Safety Awareness

This two hour class is designed to give plant personnel who do not have day to day responsibility of working with radioactive sources a basic awareness of the fundamentals of radiation safety. No test is given as a part of this class; however, certificates will be mailed to attendees.

$400 for up to 10 people + travel & expenses

Add $15 for each additional person up to a maximum of 20 people per session

If you have any questions or would like to schedule a class, please contact the Training Department.